

Nixon, Dean conferred on Watergate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House acknowledged Monday that President Nixon conferred this spring with his counsel, John W. Dean III, about his Watergate investigation. But it said Nixon would not release the logs of their talks on grounds it would be "constitutionally inappropriate."

It was reported during the weekend that Dean, who has been fired, told Senate investigators he met more than 30 times with Nixon this year about a cover-up of the Watergate bugging.

Facing a series of questions Monday, on the eve of resumption of the Senate's nationally televised hearings, Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren repeated again that "the President was not involved in Watergate or in any coverup."

Asked whether Nixon met with Dean more frequently this year than in 1972, Warren replied: "Obviously there were topics of interest this year that would have involved the office of the counsel."

Warren said their discussions involved, among other things, Nixon's "own investigation" that he ordered into Watergate March 21.

But Warren said Nixon "will not allow the logs to be released," either to the Senate Watergate committee or even if subpoenaed to do so by the federal grand jury, "because it would be constitutionally inappropriate."

"It would violate the basic doctrine of separation of powers," Warren replied when asked to explain. The White House used the same "constitutionally inappropriate" phrase last week in saying Nixon would not submit to a personal appearance before the grand jury.

Special Watergate Prosecutor Archibald Cox, asked about the Nixon refusal, told reporters that he intended to have access to all papers and would expose any attempt to keep him from them.

"I have stated before and I would be glad to say it again that I have been assured of access to all papers. I intend to have access to all papers, and if there is any waffling on it, I intend to make the waffling plain," Cox said.

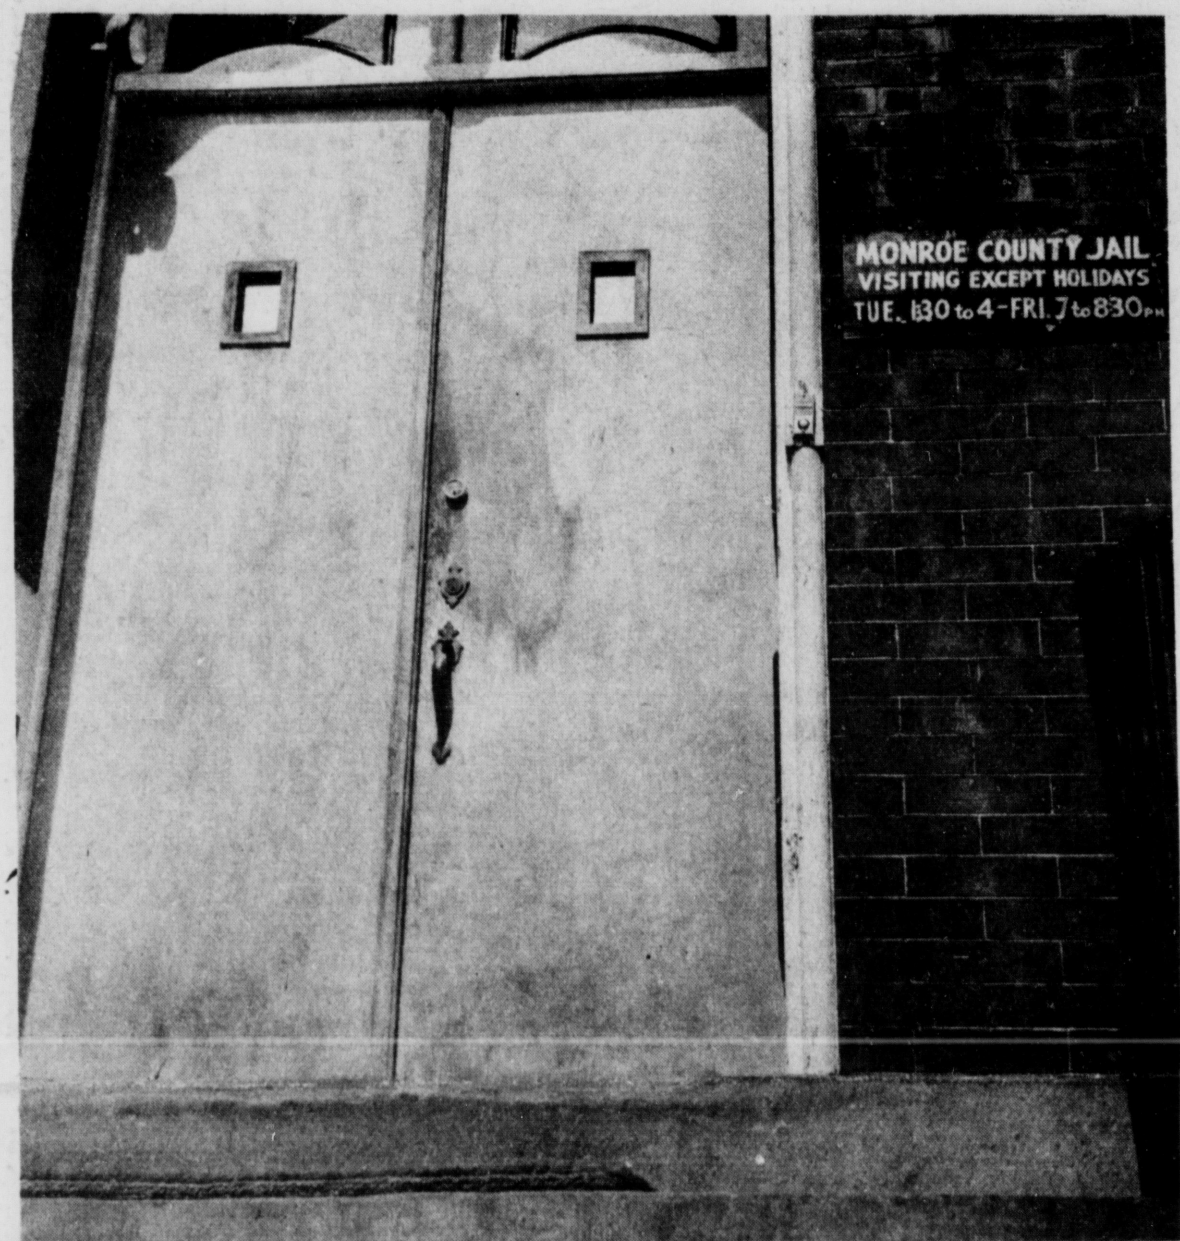

Attorney General Elliot L. Richardson told a Justice Department news conference that the courts may have to decide whether Nixon gives the logs to Cox. If there is a court test, Richardson said, Cox would be backed by the Justice Department while Nixon would have to use the White House counsel.

"I see no other way to do it," Richardson said. "It would be a great constitutional issue."

In another development, the New York Times quoting sources near Cox said Assistant Attorney General Henry E. Petersen, who headed the Watergate probe for a while, was misled by the White House, but apparently was not involved in a coverup.

Cox proposed a three-month postponement in the Senate hearings on grounds they created "grave danger" in prosecution of the case. Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., chairman of the Senate Watergate committee, promptly turned him down, saying, "I wouldn't consent to it."

Prisoners paradise . . .

Hardly. Hundreds of prisoners have passed through these doors of the Monroe County Jail into cells handling thrice their capacity at certain times. New state standards say "never again." See story, photos, page 11.

Tax break on way

HARRISBURG — The Senate approved Monday the first part of a House package designed to give property tax breaks to victims of floods last June and in September 1971. The part of the two-bill package allows county assessment boards to assess property at its post flood value. In effect, it eliminates assessment on the property for the part of the year prior to the flooding.

Bufalino hearing denied

WASHINGTON — The Supreme Court Monday denied a hearing to reputed Mafia leader Rosario A. "Russell" Bufalino, of Kingston, who has been fighting deportation to his native Sicily for the last 15 years. The order leaves standing a ruling against him on Jan. 30 of this year, by a U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals. A deportation order has been in effect since the appeals court action.

State police 'Bill of Rights'

HARRISBURG — The House Republicans Monday introduced a bill to radically revamp state police operation and end "political abuses" on the force. The measure calls for a civilian state police commissioner, an inspector general to handle grievances, and a civilian review board to oversee promotions and dismissals. According to its sponsor, the bill would give state troopers a "Bill of Rights" and stop arbitrary dismissals and transfers.

Lower speed limits urged

WASHINGTON — The Senate Monday passed a "Sense of the Congress" resolution urging the states to reduce highway speed limits by 10 miles per hour in order to conserve gasoline. The measure, which was added to a pending fuel allocation bill, calls on the states to reduce all speed limits in excess of 50 mph either by 10 mph or down to a maximum of 55 mph.

Nuclear blast scheduled

LAS VEGAS — A nuclear device 3,490 feet beneath the surface will be touched off Wednesday morning at the Nevada test site, the Atomic Energy Commission announced Monday. The force of the blast may sway highrise buildings in Las Vegas, 110 miles away. One building in Beatty, 32 miles away, will be evacuated as will all mines within 50 miles of ground zero.

Wage-price freeze looms

WASHINGTON — Democratic senators voted unanimously in a caucus Monday to attach an amendment providing for a 90-day wage-price freeze as a rider to the first appropriate bill coming before the Senate. The administration reiterated its opposition to such a solution to the problem of inflation.

Runoff set for N.Y. mayoralty

NEW YORK (UPI) — City Comptroller Abraham Beame led the field Monday night in the race for the Democratic nomination for mayor of the nation's largest city, but failed to win outright and will face a June 26 runoff, probably against Rep. Herman L. Badillo, D-N.Y.

The runoff, under provisions of a new state law, will be the first in the New York history.

With more than half the vote counted in a light turnout, the 67-year-old Beame had 131,798 votes—35 per cent of the Democratic vote, but short of the 40 per cent plurality needed to win nomination outright.

In a close race for second place and the right to face Beame in the runoff, Badillo had 99,130 votes or 26 per cent, and his fellow New York Congressman, Mario Biaggi, 88,147 or 23 per cent.

The winner of the runoff will face State Sen. John J. Marchi, who was unopposed for the Republican nomination. Incumbent mayor John V. Lindsay is not running for re-election.

Biaggi, 55, is a former police hero identified as a law and order candidate. Badillo, 43, is the first Puerto Rican to serve in Congress.

The vote, hampered by intermittent rain and a somewhat confused campaign, was light. City officials had predicted only about 800,000 voters would cast ballots in the Democratic primary — about one third of New York's 2.4 million registered Democrats.

New York's two other substantive parties, the Liberals and the Conservatives, had designated in city conventions two of the candidates in the Democratic field, a process legal in New York States, where cross-filing is permitted.

Cox asks postponement

Ervin rejects delay of hearing

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Special Prosecutor Archibald Cox Monday proposed a three-month postponement of the Senate's Watergate hearings. But Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., chairman of the Senate Watergate committee, promptly rejected any delay.

"I wouldn't consent to it," Ervin told reporters. "If it took three months to get indictments, it would take three to six months for a trial, and the prosecutors have had the case since June of last year."

With the nationally televised hearings scheduled to resume today, Cox sent Ervin a five-page letter saying the hearings posed a "grave danger" to prosecution of the case.

"The continuation of hearings at this time would create grave danger that the full facts about the Watergate case and related matters will never come to light," Cox wrote, "and that many of those who are guilty of serious wrongdoing will never be brought to justice."

Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn., the vice chairman of the committee, said he had not decided what course the hearings should take. The committee canceled a Monday meeting and scheduled a closed session before the public hearings resume at 10 a.m. EDT today.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield also said the hearings "ought to go ahead," adding "all I want is for the facts to be laid out for the people."

Cox, a Harvard law professor and the Kennedy administration's solicitor general, has been on the job only 10 days.

Sen. Joseph M. Montoya, D-N.M., a member of the Ervin committee, also rejected Cox' proposal. "I cannot conceive of Congress becoming a subsidiary for Mr. Cox by bending to his will, well meaning as it might be," said Montoya.

As to Cox' statements the hearings might jeopardize prosecutions, Mansfield said: "That's a chance we'll have to take."

"I am not looking for a fight with the Senate committee," he said, adding "I would appreciate its (the request) being thought of as a vote of confidence."

Senate committee releases $3.53 billion state budget

HARRISBURG (UPI) — The Senate Appropriations Committee Monday released a general budget bill totaling $3.53 billion that retains Gov. Milton Shapp's plan for "modest" personal income and business tax cuts.

Sen. Henry J. Cianfrani, D-Philadelphia, committee chairman, said the bill is about $19.7 million less than the amount requested by Gov. Shapp, but $30.1 million more than the House Republican proposal.

Amending the House version to save time, the Senate restored the $13.7 million cut by House Republicans from the Mental Health and Mental Retardation budget. That restores the mental health package to the $323.7 million asked by Shapp.

It also increased by $4 million the Republican proposal for public assistance. The new figure, $635 million, is still $15.5 million less than what Shapp asked.

Cianfrani said the budget package, in total, is "almost the same" as Gov. Shapp's. But the Senate juggled the amounts appropriated to various departments.

May correct power problems

Spacewalk given approval

HOUSTON (UPI) — Top NASA officials Monday cleared the Skylab 1 crew for a daring spacewalk Thursday to boost the failing power supply aboard America's first orbital space station.

After meeting six hours to weigh the risks involved, officials approved plans for Charles "Pete" Conrad to crawl hand-over-hand on the outside of the crippled space station and cut or pry open a jammed solar cell power wing.

Plans called for Joseph P. Kerwin to help him.

Success would end an electrical energy crisis aboard Skylab which forced Conrad, Kerwin and Paul J. Weitz to curtail their scientific experiments and threatened to keep two other crews from spending the full 56 days planned for each in Skylab later this year.

As a bonus, officials said, the astronauts might perform four secondary tasks during the spacewalk—checking the parasol sheltering Skylab, pinning open the broken cover of a sun-watching telescope, tapping on a stuck electrical switch in an effort to free it, and changing a film magazine in the space station's solar observatory.

At the same time it announced formal approval of the spacewalk, NASA said earlier consideration of extending the planned 28-day mission of Skylab 1 had been vetoed by physicians.

"From all we can tell, the crew is in extremely excellent health through the 11th day now," said Dr. John Zieglschmid, deputy chief of health services at the Johnson Space Center in Houston. "We expect this trend to continue."

"What kind of readaptive process takes place (returning to earth gravity) after a flight of 28 days is hard to say. No one knows that, and that is why we're flying this mission—particularly from a medical point of view."

Mission control issued a revised flight plan for today,

Security no issue in coverup

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Confidential CIA records published Monday suggest that White House efforts to suppress the Watergate investigation last year were aimed at avoiding embarrassment to President Nixon before the election, not at protecting national security.

The records, kept by Lt. Gen. Vernon A. Walters, deputy director of the CIA, also disclosed that he and then-FBI Director L. Patrick Gray initially cooperated with White House efforts to keep knowledge of the scandal from spreading. But the records show Walters and Gray later resisted alleged cover-up attempts partly because they were afraid FBI investigators would leak their involvement to the press.

Excerpts from the nine Walters memos were published by the New York Times. Congressional investigators confirmed that they were the same records Walters has furnished to three separate committees investigating the CIA's role in the affair.

Walters wrote the memoranda after each of his contacts in 1972 with Gray and White House aides John Ehrlichman, H.R. Haldeman and John Dean. They comprise a virtual diary—the only one known to exist—of alleged White House efforts to involve the CIA.

Walters, in a memo dated June 28, described how he and CIA Director Richard Helms were called to the White House on June 23 for a meeting with Ehrlichman and Haldeman.

Linda Tiburzi makes history in U.S. aviation.

Woman makes history in U.S. aviation circles

DALLAS (UPI) — Bonnie Tiburzi got a kiss and a hug and a case of the giggles Monday.

The "half-Italian, half-Swedish" beauty also got her silver flight wings as the first woman pilot who will fly passenger jetliners for a major U.S. airline.

Her shapely 5-foot-7, 125-pound figure was well hidden under a Navy blue uniform but she told it all with a grin that stretched the freckles on her tanned nose and cheeks.

"I don't think you can ignore the fact that I'm a woman. I think people are kind of used to having women in aviation," said the new American Airlines pilot.

"Women fly no differently than men."

First Officer Tiburzi, 24, of Miami, graduated from the airline's 10-week pilot school in Fort Worth, Tex., and will be based at LaGuardia in New York City. She said it would take three years to advance to the co-pilot's seat of a jetliner and 10 years to become a captain.

"I've been waiting for this a long time," Miss Tiburzi said as American Airlines Capt. Ted Melden pinned her flight wings on the front of her blue tunic.

Then pilot kissed pilot and the giggling started.

Miss Tiburzi's father, a former Trans World Airline pilot, taught her to fly when she was 12.

The only thing American had to change, she said, was the uniform. "They took a little in here and a little out there."

House bomb ban move hits temporary roadblock

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A House move to start drafting a compromise with the Senate over differing provisions to ban further funds for bombing in Cambodia was temporarily blocked Monday.

The technical maneuvering was prompted by a fear by doves that hawkish members might try to force House conferees to stand by their less rigid bombing ban included in a supplemental appropriation bill.

Rep. Robert N. Giaimo, D-Conn., aware that most of his dove colleagues were out of the city Monday, objected to a unanimous consent request by Chairman George Mahon to have his House appropriations Committee meet in conference with the panel's Senate counterpart.

The delay was only temporary, since rules provide that Mahon can ask his committee for authority to move to go to conference, which would require only a simple majority vote, Mahon planned to seek that authority from his panel today.

The House, on May 10, broke for the first time from majority support of President Nixon's Southeast Asia war policies. It approved a provision that would deny use of any funds in the money bill for continued bombing in Cambodia.

The Senate agreed to an amendment by Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton, D-Mo., in its version of the money bill that says no money in any bill, not just the supplemental appropriation measure, could be used to support any military action in Cambodia or Laos.

Giaimo says he favors the Eagleton amendment but heard rumors that if Mahon won consent to go to conference then a move would be made to bind House conferees to the less stringent House bombing ban.

Governor calls for Nixon resignation

STATELINE, Nev. (UPI) — Democratic Gov. Patrick J. Lucey of Wisconsin Monday called upon President Nixon to resign now "for the good of the country" so the office of the Presidency can be "rehabilitated."

"I must appeal to the patriotism of the President to pursue the one course available to him which will serve the best interests of the country," Lucey said in prepared remarks issued at the opening session of the 65th National Governor's Conference at a Lake Tahoe gambling resort.

Lucey said he had hoped Nixon could "ride out the storm" over Watergate and that the "damage that has already been done to the political process could be repaired. At this point, I do not believe that this is possible unless President Nixon resigns the Presidency of the United States."

Lucey's statehouse colleagues, including Democrats, declined to endorse his suggestion.

Republican Gov. Ronald Reagan of California called Lucey's demand "a rather dangerously irresponsible thing to say."

Reagan said, "I think it's time for us to shut up and let the law take its course."

Democratic governors caucused privately and discussed the Watergate scandal but took no formal action, according to their chairman.

'Watergate West' hearings to begin

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Several former Nixon administration officials are expected to testify—either voluntarily or under subpoena—when the county grand jury begins its "Watergate West" hearing today into the burglary of the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist.

The four-day inquiry could determine how far the plot led into the White House and could result in indictments charging aiding and abetting a burglary. The felony carries a possible sentence of one to 14 years in prison.

Disclosure of the burglary, which occurred at the Beverly Hills office of Dr. Lewis Fielding during the Labor Day weekend of 1971, was in large part responsible for dismissal of all charges against Ellsberg and Anthony J. Russo in the Pentagon Papers trial last month.

A number of former Nixon administration officials have indicated a willingness to appear before the grand jury and others may be subpoenaed by District Attorney Joseph Busch.

Busch's deputies also have contacted John Ehrlichman, a top aide to the President; former CIA Director Richard Helms; David Young, former member of the National Security Council, and former White House officials John Dean III and G. Gordon Liddy.

DEALER INQUIRIES INVITED

Boyle to be witness in 'Jock' trial

ERIE, Pa. (UPI) — W. A. "Tony" Boyle, deposed president of the United Mine Workers, his successor and a convicted union official were named Monday as prosecution witnesses in the trial of Albert Pass, a former UMA officer charged in the slaying of Joseph "Jock" Yablonski, a union reformer.

Special prosecutor Richard

Sprague said in Erie County Court that Boyle, UMW President Arnold Miller and William J. Prater, 53, convicted last March on three counts of murder, would testify in Pass' trial.

Forty-four prospective jurors from a panel of 250 were questioned Monday when the trial opened before Judge Edward Carney, but only one juror, Ronald E. Wetmore, 26, of Union City, Pa. dairy farmer, was selected.

Sprague indicated it would take about a week to choose a jury.

Pass, charged on three counts of murder, was accused of arranging to raise money to finance the slaying of Yablonski, who ran unsuccessfully against Boyle for the UMW presidency in 1969.

Yablonski, his wife and daughter were slain in their home in Clarksville, Pa., on Dec. 31, 1969.

Pass is the seventh and last defendant to face action in the case. After Prater was convicted, he gave a statement concerning his role in the slayings. Silous Huddleston, a local union president in LaFollette, Tenn., also confessed along with his daughter, Mrs. Annette Gilly. It is expected the prosecution will try to use Prater's statement in Pass' trial.

Mrs. Gilly's husband, Paul, one of the three alleged triggermen, was tried and convicted along with Aubran "Buddy" Martin. Another defendant, Claude Vealey, pleaded guilty and implicated the others.

Pass and Prater, former UMW District 19 officials from the Kentucky-Tennessee coal fields, had established a fund of $20,000 to pay the hired killers, according to Sprague.

Huddleston said he was a go between because he carried the money from the officials to the hired killers.

Sprague contended the money was provided by Boyle and strained through a District 19 organizing committee. However, several committee members testified they returned the expense checks to Pass and Prater. All admitted lying before investigating grand juries on order from Pass and Prater.

Watergate linked to speculation

Gold soars, dollar down

LONDON (UPI) — The price of gold soared to another round of record highs in Europe Monday, and the value of the U.S. dollar slumped to new lows against most other major currencies.

Some dealers linked the new speculative exchange with reports from Washington quoting former presidential counsel John Dean III as saying he discussed plans to conceal White House involvement in the Watergate affair with President Nixon.

"The longer Watergate drags on and the more revelations that crop up, the more the dollar is likely to come under pressure," said a spokesman for the London merchant bank of N. M. Rothschild and Sons, Ltd.

A Paris banker also cited the inconclusive results of last week's meeting in Iceland between Nixon and French President Georges Pompidou.

The dollar's decline Monday reflected a loss in value of 10 per cent on some money exchange markets since it was devalued officially by the same amount in February.

With the dollar sliding, the National Bank of Finland officially revalued the Finnish mark Monday from 3.90 to the dollar to 3.73. According to international agreement signed Feb. 15, the Finnish National Bank was required to support the dollar at 3.813 marks. The rate at midday Monday was 3.814.

In the second of twice-daily London price fixings, which generally govern world trading in gold, the metal was pegged at $123.50 an ounce against the previous peak of $120 set Friday.

This was almost three times the official U.S. price of gold, $42.22 an ounce, which was established when the dollar was devalued last February.

In Frankfurt, the dollar closed at a new low of 2.6050 marks, a de facto dollar devaluation of 18.7 per cent against the mark since the world currency crisis in February.

"There was a mad scramble to get rid of dollars and the market was very hectic," a Frankfurt banker said.

In Zurich, the dollar also closed at a new low range of 3.03-3.0350 Swiss francs.

'Imitation' may have caused SST crash

PARIS (UPI) — U.S. aircraft engineers said Monday the crash of the Soviet supersonic Tupolev 144 jetliner Sunday may have occurred because the pilot was trying to match a maneuver by the rival Anglo-French Concorde.

A police spokesman said the jetliner's black box flight recorder was found destroyed and useless as a means of determining the cause of the crash.

Despite the crash, world aircraft industry officials said the advance into the supersonic age for commercial air traffic would continue. Some said, however, the crash might result in a setback to the Soviets' hopes to begin carrying passengers by next year.

A few minutes before the swept-wing Tupolev 144 took off for its demonstration flight before 350,000 spectators at the Paris International Air Show, the Concorde had executed what is known as a "touch and go" maneuver.

In such a maneuver, the plane appears to be landing but instead pulls into a steep climb.

"Those planes were never built to do acrobatics," the executive of one American aircraft firm said.

Loudspeakers told the crowds the Concorde would execute the "touch and go" but made no similar announcement for the Tupolev flight. However, the Tupolev apparently tried the same maneuver and seemed to go into a stall. Its nose dipped and it went into a dive from which the pilot, Mikhail Kouslov, could not pull out. Then the plane broke in pieces.

Not the Eldred Supervisors

Who doubts an engineer's verdict?

Editor's note: This is the first of a four-part series detailing the "actions" of the Eldred Township Supervisors in one meeting.

By MAUREEN RUFE
Pocono Record Reporter
KUNKLETOWN — For a while at the Eldred Township meeting Saturday morning it appeared as if the supervisors and the local planning commission were playing an updated version of the childhood game, "button, button, who's got the button?"

The real difference was the game should have been renamed "engineer, engineer, who's got the engineer?"

The Eldred Township Planning Commission at its regular meeting May 22 announced a township engineer would be attending all future planning sessions to provide technical input for the board.

Admittedly, however, none of the planners could remember the engineer's name.

On the basis of this future policy, the commission approved a simple, three-lot plot plan belonging to Michael Langey, on condition that their engineer approved.

Then Saturday morning, Langey appeared before the Eldred Supervisors asking them to sign his plan. The three-men were prepared to sign it without any hesitation until resident Jim Price asked where the engineer's comments were.

When Langey announced that he didn't have the township engineer's approval, a controversy arose among the board members that got so hot at one point that supervisor chairman Adam Meckes threatened to resign.

"This township doesn't have an engineer; we never hired one," said Meckes adamantly. "If the time comes that we have to hire an engineer yet, I'll resign and he can do my whole job!"

Fellow supervisors Alton Dorshimer and Stanley Frable both backed Meckes in his position claiming the taxpayers should not have to foot the bill for retaining an engineer.

All three contended since a licensed engineer drew up the plan, there was no need for the township to spend money to check his work.

At one point Dorshimer contended that "if something goes wrong with the plan, we'll go back to the engineer that drew it up, then."

Even Langey himself argued that if an engineer put his seal on the plan his reputation was at stake and shouldn't be questioned.

In a lengthy debate which mainly involved Meckes, Price asserted that it was the supervisors' responsibility to protect the township and the taxpayers' interest by retaining their own engineer. He explained that even licensed engineers can make mistakes and stressed the supervisors could be held accountable if they didn't, to the best of their ability, check "these things" out.

Price further explained that in most township's the developer has to pay the fee for the township's engineering review; therefore, taxpayers would not "be liable for that expense anyway."

"We've got to start doing things right in Eldred Township," declared Price. "It's your job to protect the township, gentlemen. This engineer (referring to Langey's engineer) represents the developer. How do you know he's right?"

Although asserting the supervisors were, as far as he was concerned, one of the most honest boards in the county, Price said they were not fulfilling their elected duty if they failed to appoint an engineer to represent the township.

At the conclusion of the session, it appeared as if the three supervisors were finally amenable to appointing a township engineer.

Meckes asked Price at this point, "Can we appoint anybody we want?" Price answered that it was totally up to the board as to who the engineer would be.

Open laughter broke out at the meeting when Meckes quickly suggested that John Aicher be appointed township engineer, the same man who has been in possible violation of the township subdivision ordinance for the last six months.

Finally the board of supervisors agreed to sign Langey's plan to prevent any lengthy delay in construction for the resident.

They also agreed to consult with their attorney to determine if the law stipulates the board must retain an engineer.

Sportsmen sponsor contest

TANNERSVILLE — The Fifth Annual Fishing Contest sponsored by the Monroe County Federation of Sportsmen Clubs was held Saturday in Tannersville.

The outdoor classic held at the Pocono Elementary Center Pond drew 106 entries from the area.

As in the past years the sportsmen provided a wide array of prizes for the young fishermen and women. One was lucky enough to catch one of the "tagged" fish.

Officially opening at 9 a.m. and lasting until noon, youngsters up to 12 years of age found their favorite spot around the pond, which had been stocked with 440 fish donated by the Tobyhanna Conservation Co-op Fish Nursery. Thirty-one of the fish had been "tagged" by Walter Burkhardt of the Pennsylvania Fish Commission.

The limit was four fish per child. Douglas and Jennifer Smith, ages 4 and 5, children of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Smith of Tannersville each caught the limit. Though none were "tagged," they were happy with their catch.

Mike Tallada of Tannersville had the first strike of the day. Randy Garris, age 3, the youngest fisherman in the contest, proudly displayed his "tagged" fish as he received his prize.

Jack Loysen was chairman and Larry Smeltz co-chairman for the event.

Elmer Detrick of Stroudsburg, president of the federation, presented prizes as youngsters brought in their "tagged" fish.

Church of God to convene

MOUNT POCONO — The Worldwide Church of God has held its Feast of the Tabernacles in the Pocono Mountains during the fall since 1967. Now for the first time it will celebrate its Feast of Pentecost at the convention site in Mount Pocono.

Approximately 4,000 members from New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Maryland and the District of Columbia will convene for one day, Monday June 11, for the services.

The Feast of Pentecost is a harvest-feast which falls on the seventh Sunday after Easter. On that day the Apostles went out to preach and baptized thousands — a great harvest of souls for the church.

The 4,000 convening here will be approximately one-third the number expected to arrive in October to celebrate The Feast of the Tabernacles.

Tocks optimism encouraging

Tocks Island Dam is "off and running", said Interior Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton at the annual meeting of the Delaware River Basin Commission.

Well, we'll believe that when we see it. Proposed 18 years ago, the project has been dragged through virtually every corridor in Washington in the last few years to answer criticisms by environmental and reactionary groups who just don't want to see the dam built.

Some of the fears are justified. While we want the dam and its valuable reservoir, we don't want to see it turn into a massive, open sewer in eight years or so. Safeguards are necessary, and it is good that people concerned with the environment raised those hard questions.

But there is a difference between battling for an environmentally sound project and fighting to prevent its construction regardless. This is a case when we must consider others beyond our boundaries. We each may own a slice of land, but we don't own Mother Earth. It is here for the use of us all, and that includes those city-dwellers who desperately need an outlet.

That outlet is along the Delaware. It is the one place where there is space enough to accommodate the millions along the coastal megalopolis and local residents and still leave room for nature to bloom. It also is the one place with sufficient untapped water reserves to stave off the urban drought planners foresee in the not-too-distant future.

There are other reasons for the dam to be built, and they include aspects of value to residents of the Poconos as well. One advantage already accrued is increased access to the Delaware River, all but impossible (except for a fat fee) in the days of private ownership of the river's banks.

Morton estimated that the dam would be under construction in three years. Much has to be done before then, but we hope he's right. The gains to this area are such to prompt us to say, the sooner the better. Or, perhaps, the better, the sooner.

Mend your fences

If the trucking industry is to gain favor among the populace of Pennsylvania in its bid to get legislation permitting double-bottoms (two trailers hauled by one tractor) it had better start mending some of its own fences.

Not too many years ago, the general public tipped its hat to the truck driver who showed an unusual amount of courtesy as well as ability on the highway.

A lot of truck drivers still maintain that degree of respect, but there's too many who have lost it by racing side by side on the Interstate highways, exceeding posted speed limits in congested areas, cutting in and out of traffic and tailgating to a dangerous degree.

We agree it's costly to have to split trailers at the Pennsylvania borders and double up again at the other side, but mass transportation hasn't taken over yet, and the average motoring public still likes to be able to travel without the horrible thought of a monster bearing down on them.

The trucking industry performs a vital role in the nation's business and economy, and should continue in that role.

One thing that will help is the return to more courtesy and safety on the highway.

And it's not always the driver. Sometimes the schedule he's forced to meet is unreal. Sometimes the load he carries is beyond the legal limit.

If the trucking industry can recover some of the excellent image it carried a few years ago, it can talk the people of Pennsylvania into accepting the double bottoms.

2-issue release set

By RAY PATTON
Two issues are scheduled for release by the United States Postal Service on June 22. The first will be the third in the "Rise of the Spirit of Independence" series and will show a "Post Rider."

In Colonial times this was one of the ways that letters and official documents were delivered from one place to another. This stamp will have first day sale at Rochester N.Y. in conjunction with the ROPEX Stamp Exhibit being held June 22-24 at the Flagship Rochester Hotel.

The second issue will be the regular 21-cent value honoring A.P. Giannini and will be released at San Mateo, Calif.

Club News
The Pocono Mountain Stamp Club will meet tonight at 8. This will be a very important meeting to elect new officers for 1973-74 season, and to have reservations for the Annual Outing. All outstanding tickets must be turned in at this meeting.

Martha: night of the needle

WASHINGTON — A lot has happened since Martha Mitchell complained last June 23 that a security guard had ripped her telephone out of the wall and had inoculated her indelicately in the derriere.

For close to a year, witnesses have kept silent about the incident. But in the wake of the Watergate revelations, the new spirit of confession has now loosened their tongue. We have learned, at last, the details that housewives have been hounding us for.

The implication of their inquiries has been that poor Martha knew too much and was shut up by Republican security guards. The truth is less sinister. Martha Mitchell is a delightful, if loquacious lady. She has color and sparkle and a sense of humor. But she sometimes becomes volatile when she drinks too much.

This was her condition on June 23 in Newport Beach's Newport Hotel on the California coast. As she became more shrill, her security guard, Steve King, tried to calm her. She screamed that he was holding her prisoner and she lunged for the telephone to call for help.

Yanks out phone

King was worried that, in her condition, she might reach a reporter and say something that would embarrass her later. So he yanked the telephone cord out of the wall while she was talking to UPI reporter Helen Thomas.

Martha became violent, assaulting the furnishings. Once she slashed the air with a karate swing and her hand crashed through a window pane. The broken glass cut her hand deeply, increasing her hysteria.

King summoned the hotel doctor, but Martha refused to let him look at her hurt hand. To quiet her, King pinned her down while the doctor gave her a tranquilizer shot. It had little immediate effect on the agitated Martha, who continued to rave. At one point, she wrapped a washrag around her hand to stop the bleeding but still wouldn't let the doctor treat it.

The harassed security guard, meanwhile, decided Martha Mitchell was more than he could handle. So he phoned her husband, ex-Attorney General John Mitchell, in Washington and gave him a blow-by-blow account of the altercation.

Call to Kalmbach

Immediately, Mitchell placed an urgent call to President Nixon's personal attorney, Herb Kalmbach, who happens to live in Newport Beach. Mitchell asked Kalmbach, as a personal favor, to hurry to the hotel and take charge of the situation.

When Kalmbach arrived, he found Martha still at full lung power, a blood-soaked washrag around her hand, protesting that she was being held prisoner. He finally got her calmed and brought in his own doctor to examine her hand.

Martha Mitchell got her hand stitched, spent the next day with the Kalmbachs and then flew to New York for a few days of seclusion at the plush Westchester Country Club.

John Mitchell, meanwhile, discussed the incident with the President, who was understanding and agreed Mitchell should leave the campaign to straighten out his marital problems. The former attorney general may also have felt the Watergate developments closing in on him. But Watergate was not mentioned, according to knowledgeable sources, as his reason for resigning.

Washington whirl

Indian medicine; Two militant Indian leaders appeared the other day at the Interior Department, the citadel of the white bureaucracy they have been warring against. They had been invited by Interior Secretary Rogers Morton to present their views. The conscientious Morton, who is slowly recovering from cancer, impressed the Indians with his sincerity. At the end of the interview, LaNada Boyer, a Bannock-Shoshone, quietly pulled from her purse twigs of cedar. Burning cedar is the age-old Indian ritual for good health. As Morton nodded appreciatively the Indian woman fanned the fragrant smoke toward him, saying softly, "This is for your health."

Short memories: The nation's militant conservationists sometimes have memories as short as their tempers. One of the Senate's most tireless fighters for the environment has been Frank Moss, D-Utah, who has sponsored every major air and water pollution bill that has passed in the last 15 years. He has also co-sponsored the Wilderness Act, the Wild Rivers Act and the Outdoor Recreation Act. Now, however, Moss has backed measures to allow a water back-up from Lake Powell that will increase the water beneath Rainbow Bridge National Monument. Although it is dubious that the water would structurally damage the bridge, Moss is being nastily attacked by some of his fair-weather friends in the environmental movement.

Flatten ears

Our 10-year-old boy has protruding ears, and he is becoming terribly conscious of this. He is the object of ridicule by unkind schoolmates.

We are considering having this corrected. Is the operation a dangerous one? When should it be done?

There are no plastic surgeons in our city. Mrs. L.S., Ala.

Dear Mrs. S.:

There are now many excellent, simple, and completely safe operations for the reshaping of the ears.

Within a few days after the operation, the ears are well on their way to complete healing.

I think that you should give more than just consideration to having this operation performed. A 10-year old highly sensitive child can be psychologically scarred by the constant reference to his protruding, or "flopp," ears.

Young children are not always kind to each other and some may make reference to "elephant ears" and other terms of disparagement, which is emotionally painful.

Your own doctor knows the closest plastic surgeon where such operations are easily performed. Your child will benefit greatly when this defect is remedied.

Letters to the Editor

Let's help volunteers

Editor, The Record:

Volunteer firemen, being called from a warm bed, hot meal, house full of guests, favorite ball game. So what!

Volunteer firemen out on a cold winter night, icy roads, snow underfoot, ladders slippery, cold and wet—so, poor guys!

Letter in the mail, asking for a donation to buy much needed equipment: Let someone else donate, after all, someone else can afford it better than I, and my house will probably never catch fire... all kinds of excuses.

Speeders on the highway — that's O.K. Drunks on the highway — that's O.K. Hot-rodders laying down patches of rubber (if you don't believe it, look at the tire marks on any highway) that's O.K. Hitchhikers along and on the highway (there is a law against that also) but no summons handed out.

I am sure over a busy weekend these things alone could have kept the Wayne County State Police occupied, but they had more important things to do — a couple of small fire companies were causing a big hazard by asking for funds to help buy some much-needed equipment to help you in a time of emergency. Let's get them off the road, they are creating a hazard.

What about the fireman? Isn't he putting his life on the line when he answers your call? Remember a few years ago when Marshalls Creek firemen lost their lives in a truck fire and explosion?

One question is finally answered: Where is a policeman when you want him? Why, out giving some volunteer fire company a ticket, of course.

I think it is time that we, the people volunteers help, should get behind them and help them now. Write and give them your moral support. Help our volunteers.

Wait until facts are in

Editor, The Record:

Today I picked up the Pocono Record and as usual I read the front page first, then page 2, then page 3 and when I came to page 4 I immediately started to read "Letters to the Editor".

I didn't read the funnies, my horoscope or Ann Landers, and I didn't look to see who got married, etc., etc., but I read by the numbers 1, 2, 3, 4 etc., but as I read the first page I got an awful feeling in my stomach reading the ridiculous demagoguery and Democratic chicanery called Watergate.

Yes, I read the first page first and I can't for the life of me see how anyone can convict the President or anyone else until all the facts are in. Those people who have implicated the President and accused him of knowing about Watergate in advance have been found to be liars, even by Jack Anderson who says he doubts the President is guilty.

Mrs. VanVliet is saying that President Nixon is a no-gooder and that his gang (as she calls them) almost got away with their dirty work. What dirty work? Isn't it possible that the people involved (not elected officials) that did this thing were led to believe that there were certain things in that headquarters that were detrimental to the safety of this great nation? Well, I say, "Give the men a chance before you convict them." If you believe in justice (which I doubt) then you are being very unjust.

You say that President Nixon spent $70,000 for a screen around his swimming pool. You say a woman told you so and that it was in the papers. Don't always believe wagging tongues and don't always believe everything you read

Nixon keeping prices high

Editor, The Record:

There are many people we know who think the price of meat is too high. To go to the store and buy meat takes almost one week's pay.

To tell you the truth, in our minds President Nixon has much to do with it. He keeps the prices high and the individuals pay low. In our opinion, President Nixon is for the rich or wealthier in society.

Good luck Mr. Dimmick

Nixon: going, going?

WASHINGTON (KFS) — Strange as it may sound, Richard Nixon may soon find himself propped up by his former opponents, the liberal establishment, while his erstwhile supporters, in the center and right of the Republican Party, maneuver to get rid of him. Here in Washington, serious talk of the President's resignation is the order of the day, especially among his former staunch supporters in Republican ranks.

These Republicans do not think Watergate the crime of the century, but they are coldly analyzing its political implications. The political analysis goes this way, and you will soon be hearing a lot more of it:

Whatever you think of his foreign policy achievements, the domestic rationale of the Nixon Administration has been the prospect that he could consolidate a New Majority in the nation.

The putative coalition

Putting together a coalition of South, Southwest, Middle-American suburb, Mountain States, and breaking large numbers of blue-collar and ethnic voters away from the Democratic Party, such a New Majority would dominate American politics for the foreseeable future.

But in order to fashion such a coalition, the White House would have to take vigorous action on a number of fronts: against busing, against higher taxes, against welfarism, against street crime and so on, and it would have to pursue these measures in the teeth of resistance sparked in Congress by the old liberal pressure groups.

Today — so the analysis runs — the Nixon

On the other hand, those who already have money get more, while the person who goes to work every day gets a lesser amount of pay each week to keep him or her going.

Nixon is getting paid to keep prices high; we're getting paid to pay his prices.

Administration is probably fatally crippled. Even if Nixon hangs on in office, he will lack the political clout to push ahead with the realignment of American politics.

Not surprisingly, the leaders of the liberal opposition see this too, and show no disposition to administer the coup de grace to Nixon. Liberal editorial comment will greatly soften in the near future. What the liberals desire in the White House is a crippled and ineffective conservative, one unable to attack the interests of their constituencies.

A fragile rationale

Nixon's most recent accounting of Watergate provides a fragile rationale — national security — which the liberals can buy if they want to save Nixon. But if they do this favor, they will own him.

From the standpoint of those making this case, an incoming Agnew Administration at this juncture — clean of Watergate and beginning with a fresh cast of characters — would be in a much better position to push ahead with the New Majority project. He would have three years to prove himself, and if he did gain the respect of the people he would certainly go on to the nomination and probably the victory in 1976.

The foreign policy initiatives of the first Nixon Administration would not be altered: they, after all, rest upon the massive power realities of the world of the 1970s.

From this political logic there follows the strange scenario of the liberals propping up a wounded Nixon, and the Republican establishment nudging him out upon the plank.

U.S. officials deny reports of Lebanon intervention

BEIRUT (UPI) — The U.S. Embassy denied reports Monday in a pro-Palestinian newspaper that the United States has threatened to intervene in Lebanon if new clashes break out between the army and Arab guerrillas.

The Beirut daily Al Moharrer cited unidentified Lebanese "official sources" as saying the United States issued the warning in the form of an "ultimatum" last week in an unidentified Arab nation capital.

Officials in that capital "informed Lebanese higher quarters" about it, Al Moharrer said.

U.S. embassy spokesman Boulos Malek described the Al Moharrer report as false.

"The United States did not deliver an ultimatum either to Lebanon or through any other Arab state," he said. "This story has no basis in truth."

Al Moharrer said the U.S. threatened "to intervene directly" if the army-guerrilla clashes resumed in Lebanon "and if some specific Arab quarters supported the guerrillas in a way that endangered the situation."

The newspaper said the alleged American move was the reason Arab League Secretary General Mahmoud Riad came to Beirut last week to help smooth relations between Lebanese authorities and the guerrillas.

The joint Lebanese-Palestinian committee, set up after last month's hostilities, met Monday under Premier Amin Hafez, official sources said, and the session was described as constructive and normal. The committee supervises peace agreements between the two sides.

"We discussed some of the points which were agreed upon and it was decided to remove the visible aspects of certain measures which were taken following the recent incidents," Hafez said in a statement following the meeting. He described relations between Lebanon and the Palestinians as "going from good to better." In July 1968, the United States landed 10,000 Marines in Lebanon at the request then President Camille Chamoun to help restore order during an uprising that threatened to erupt into civil war.

Economy council post filled

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon Monday selected Gary L. Seevers, an expert on the economics of agriculture and food supply, to be a member of his Council of Economic Advisers. Seevers promptly predicted a leveling off in the soaring price of food.

Seevers has been a member of the council's staff since 1970. In a brief appearance before reporters at the White House, Seevers said the outlook "is for some expansion of supply" of food during the rest of this year. This, he said, should ease the run-away inflation which has plagued the supermarket check-out counter most of this year.

Seevers succeeds Ezra Solomon on the three-member council.

Solomon had been the council's expert on trade and international economic affairs. That specialty apparently will be assumed by Marina V. Whitman, the council member who had been concentrating on food prices and similar consumer-oriented issues.

Herbert Stein, chairman of the council, defended the administration's Phase III wage and price controls. He said the largely voluntary program has been effective, adding he could not accept the suggestion that because the current round of inflation started at about the time the government switched from the mandatory Phase II to the voluntary Phase III program.

Treasury receives $180 million

Food stamp funds returned

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Agriculture Department said Monday it was returning $180 million in unspent food stamp funds to the Treasury although Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., said many millions who "ought to be getting either food stamps or commodities are not getting them."

Clayton K. Yeutter, assistant Agriculture secretary, told the Senate Nutrition Committee that the money had been appropriated as "a reserve fund in case we ran short" during the 1973 fiscal year ending June 30.

Kennedy, presiding at the hearing, said a committee report on hunger a week ago showed food needs were still widespread.

Yeutter insisted that the Agriculture Department had fully funded the food stamp program's needs.

He said the Department was conducting an aggressive outreach plan to provide more of the poor with the program's benefits.

Security at Belfast airport tightens after rockets hit

BELFAST (UPI) — The British army, responding to a rocket attack at Belfast's Aldergrove Airport, said Monday it would step up security there to guard against violence by the outlawed Irish Republican Army (IRA).

"One measure will be to patrol outside the airport area," an army spokesman said, observing, "So far the patrols have been confined to within the airport."

"For obvious reasons we don't want to go into detail, but security will be tightened," the spokesman said.

The IRA's extremist Provisional wing claimed responsibility for the Sunday rocket firing.

The army spokesman said a Russian-made RPG7 anti-tank rocket was fired from the main road outside the airport. It exploded on impact with a security fence and no-one was injured.

The IRA has said it regards Aldergrove, Northern Ireland's main civil airport, as a "legitimate target" in its campaign to force the unification of the predominantly Protestant province with the mainly Roman Catholic Irish Republic.

It says its members planted two small bombs May 17 on a runway. One bomb exploded but did not damage the runway.

Bus, auto collide injuring 34

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — An auto and a bus collided in the Northeast section of the city Monday, plunging both vehicles about 65 feet down an embankment.

Some 34 persons were injured, but with only four hospitalized, as result of the accident on the Roosevelt Blvd. during the morning rush hour.

Both vehicles went off the road and down the embankment to a railroad siding. The bus, operated by Edward V. Berkami, turned over on its right side.

Italian journalists on strike

ROME (UPI) — Journalists began a 24-hour strike Monday to protest "suffocation of freedom of the press" in Italy.

Newspaper reporters and editors, supported by composing room workers, walked out at 2 p.m. with television newsmen scheduled to follow at midnight. The strike will effectively black out all television news coverage today and halt publication of this morning and afternoon newspapers.

The news blackout comes on the eve of the Christian Democratic party congress, a session that could prove decisive for the country's center-right coalition government.

The strike stemmed from the announcement May 25 that a right-wing magazine publisher had bought a 50 per cent interest in the large circulation daily newspapers Il Messaggero of Rome and Il Secolo XIX of Genoa.

"The journalists' unions said the strike was a demonstration against the suffocation of freedom of the press and the concentration of (newspaper) ownership" in Italy.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Your Horoscope

Frances Drake

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)

Some good news or friendly cooperation should aid you in perfecting long-range plans. Study new trends, developments.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus)

Day should be generally satisfactory but, without personal initiative, you will fall behind. Nothing will be GIVEN to you.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini)

Some strain and tension possible now, so do not overtax yourself to the point of fatigue. Do your best where duties are concerned, of course, but don't assume unnecessary burdens.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)

Where the obvious means to success are skimpy, you can now figure out preferable, more feasible ones. But have patience, be vigilant, precise. Watch trends.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo)

You may face some complex situations, some unexpected obstacles, so anticipate them — but with composure and preparedness, not anxiety.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo)

Here is a spot for you to outpoint those who are careless or do not reckon with contingencies. A great day to display your innate ingenuity!

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)

Not too much planetary help, but the alert, active person can always manipulate an "off" day into one of sound usefulness, even if in an unexpected manner.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)

You may overreach your mark now through overanxiety or miscalculation.

tion. Recall how you waded through complex days before, and be guided by experience.

November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius)

Jupiter's beneficent aspect especially favors research, scientific interests, organizational matters, finances. You may get some good ideas from others.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn)

A day which calls for strong discrimination. Don't waste time on nonessentials while you neglect vital matters.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius)

Avoid tendencies toward restlessness, indecision. Protect yourself and others against dubious schemes, deceiving appearances and lack of restraint.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces)

A mixed sort of day. You are in the middle of changing situations, some controversy, some very interesting opportunities. Work matters out with your usual foresight.

YOU BORN TODAY are highly ingenious, adaptable, gregarious by nature and creative in your leanings. You have a wealth of talents but may be too impulsive at times, or so restless that you drop projects without giving them time to prove themselves. Your imagination is vivid and you put a touch of originality and finesse to whatever you do. While you are just as creatively inclined as other Geminians and could make as enviable a success in music, the theater or decorating.

actually the slam is ice cold

Just Between Us—

By Bobby Westbrook

It would be interesting to know how it feels to have a day turn out just the way I'd planned it. Considering the nature of my work, it would be too much to expect of a working day, since all sorts of happenings over which I have no control come up.

But you'd think I could manage a weekend a little better. It started out fine. We'd been invited to play golf at Pocono Farms. The rain had stopped and the sky was blue all the way up to Sky-lab. I had clean golf socks, and in spite of a few minutes' confusion at the new entrance, arrived on time.

The tees were unscarred, the fairways lush and the surrounding woodlands filled with wild flowers, and bird calls. My golf was worse than I'd feared, but the company was sympathetic, the lunch with lots of families with children was leisurely and fun, and they've used the great glacial rocks effectively in sort of sculptured groupings.

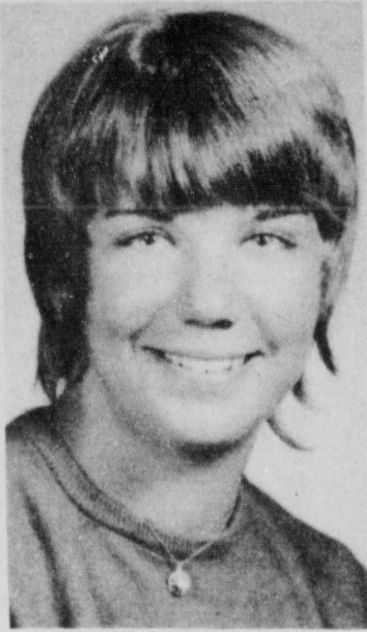

No problems so far. By not stopping to change clothes, I even made a farewell dinner party in time. It was when I got home that a note on the door started a whole new day. "We're all at the river. Come on down" — and a list of names that included two sisters, a brother-in-law, four nephews, one niece and two names I didn't even recognize.

Late as it was, I had to find out so I went down. Turned out they were friends of the children, but by the time we had stopped a dog fight as four dogs all tried to welcome me at once, and got everybody sorted out, heard the family news and finally got in a rubber of bridge — the morn had come.

With the morning, it was reassuring to see the bald eagle still circling majestically over the hills, and the full-flowing river full of canoes, and Marion Harlacher baby-sitting four grandchildren next door while their parents joined a 12-canoe flotilla upriver.

So there sit the flowers that I planned to plant, the letters I meant to write, and three pair of children's jeans on which I'd promised to embroider flowers, butterflies — and racing cars.

Recycling spurs crafts

Buckle Up

By PHYLLIS FIAROTTA

Someone recently asked which came first, recycling or crafts? There's no doubt that crafts and craftsmen have been around for centuries, but the new breed of craftsman is another species altogether, vastly different from the potter and weaver of yesteryear. In most cases, today's craftsman isn't a specialist or her weekend-handyman husband, perhaps — who finds throwaways a challenge and enjoys transforming them into decorative and useful items. To the new breed a bleach container isn't merely a bleach container but something you can make something with — the belt buckles pictured here, for example.

1. Both buckles are shown actual size. Cut out each illustration and use as your pattern. When cutting the pattern, each buckle should have a center bar. Note that this bar is represented by a dotted line in the center of each buckle.

2. Trace each buckle's outline onto the flat side of a gallon bleach container.

3. Cut along the outline with scissors. The buckle may have a slight curve.

4. To prepare the design for transferring, rub a soft lead pencil (along the flat side) to blacken the bottom surface.

5. To transfer the design, place the pattern on the top surface of the buckle, design facing upward. With a firm hand, trace along each design element. A pencil outline will appear on the buckle.

6. To paint on the designs, an oil base enamel paint is recommended. For less than 25 cents you can purchase small bottles of an excellent heavy-duty paint wherever hobby supplies are sold. Start a collection of colors for future projects. You will also need a small water color brush. To insure that the paint will adhere, sand the plastic surface with fine sand paper before you transfer the design.

7. A suggested color scheme is reds, oranges, and brown for the Pennsylvania Dutch; blues, greens, and yellows for Summer Day scene.

8. The belt is a length of very sturdy ribbon cut to your waist's measurement plus 5 inches. Wrap 1 inch of ribbon around the center bar and handstitch it to the base ribbon. Felt flower appliques can be glued along the Summer belt.

Pioneer days return with roast pig on spit

STROUDSBURG — The Monroe County Historical Society will have its annual summer pilgrimage on Saturday June 9, beginning with the dedication of a plaque at the Bossard Memorial, and ending with a roast pig dinner cooked in pioneer fashion at Quiet Valley Farm Museum.

All of this will gain added flavor as members and their guests, including the men, have been asked to wear old-fashioned costumes for the outing.

The old stone house, home of the Bossards, is in Bossardsville. It can be reached either by Route 191 or the Long Woods Road past the entrance to Glen Brook Country Club to Cherry Valley and Bossardsville. At Bossardsville turn right on the road to Hamilton Square. The Bossard Home is the second on the left. The plaque dedication is scheduled for 2:30 p.m.

At 3:30 there will be guided tours of Quiet Valley Farm Museum with the last tour starting at 4:30 p.m.

Nancy Cramer wed in London ceremony

STROUDSBURG — Mr. and Mrs. Donald L. Cramer of 517 Oak St., Stroudsburg, announce the marriage of their daughter, Nancy, to Dean R. Lettenstrom of Superior, Wisc.

They were married by Vicar Lovell in Saint Gabriel Parish Church, London, England, on May 22 at 10 a.m. They were attended by college friends.

The bride has been a student at Drake University in Des Moines, Iowa. Her husband is an instructor in the fine arts department at Drake. They will be living in Iowa for the summer.

Brownie fly-up followed by cookout

STROUDSBURG — Fly-up ceremonies for Brownies of Troop 336, Stroudsburg under the leadership of Mrs. Marie Manter was held on Tuesday when nine girls "flew" to join Junior Troop 347, led by Mrs. Katherine Murray.

They were Michelle DeFranco, Mary Beth Marquet, Susan Miller, Lori Phillips, Nancy Rinker, Donna Schroeder, Ann Schlorholz, Kim Shotwell and Wendt Strunk.

Mrs. Jean Marquet, assistant leader, pinned cardboard wings outlined with Girl Scout Colors and containing the girls on the wings. They left their Brownie friends with the words: "Now it's time to say goodbye, break the ring and out you fly."

After leaving the ring, the girls walked on the stepping stones of the three B's and received their fly-up wings from Mrs. Manter with the injunction, "That you may fly to better things."

After the ceremony, each girl received a "fairy kiss" cookie to make their wish come true.

After the ceremony, all the girls joined in a cookout.

BLAKESLEE — A Carnival of Fashions will be held at the Blakeslee Community House on Saturday, June 16, at 8 p.m.

This is the fourth annual fashion show sponsored by the United Methodist Youth Group. All models will be wearing homemade fashions. The stage will be decorated in a carnival setting.

Miss Patti Deiter married

TANNERSVILLE — Miss Patti Deiter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Deiter of Tannersville became the bride of Barry Meckes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Randolph Meckes of Stroudsburg, R.D. 5, on May 19 at 2 p.m. at the Salem United Church of Christ, Gilbert.

Rev. Wilmer C. Mantz performed the double ring ceremony.

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride wore a floor-length gown of silk organza over satin imprinted with daisies with an organza train. She wore a veil of bridal illusion.

Miss Anna Coslar of East Stroudsburg was maid of honor and the junior bridesmaid was Dara Deiter, sister of the bride. They wore long dresses of flowered lace over satin with Miss Coslar in orchid and Miss Deiter in yellow.

Robert Shupp of Effort was best man. Ushers were Charles Deiter, brother of the bride and Terry Meckes and Norman Meckes, brothers of the bridegroom.

The bride's mother wore a gown of pink double knit with long chiffon sleeves trimmed in white, with a corsage of miniature carnations. The bridegroom's mother wore a beige double knit dress with short sleeves, trimmed in brown and also had a corsage of miniature carnations.

A reception for 225 guests was held at the Reeders Fire Hall with Virgil Singer and the Beach Combers providing the music.

After a wedding trip to Lancaster, the couple are making their home with the bridegroom's parents. The bride was graduated from Pocono Mountain High School in 1972 and works at LaMar Fashions No. 1 at Sciota. Her husband was graduated from Pleasant Valley High School and works in his father's painting business.

Apricots in Shangri-la hedge against aging

NEW YORK (UPI) — Instead of searching for a "fountain" of youth perhaps Ponce De Leon ought to have hunted for an apricot orchard.

Some evidence exists that apricots have something to do with longevity. You can accept it as is — or with a grain or two of salt. Nevertheless, the apricot's link to longer life is forged in Hunza.

This is a small, high-valleyed state in northwest Pakistan. It has what authorities consider an unusually high number of active 80, 90 and 100-year olds. All have eaten apricots, loaded with vitamin A, every day of their lives. Apricot trees are considered important enough to will to a loved one upon death.

Those who have been there say it is not uncommon to see an 80-year-old working side by side in the fields with 50 and 60-year-olds. Or playing volleyball riding horseback or walking 10 miles a day.

The long life of the Hunzakuts was first noticed by Dr. Robert C. McCarrison, an English physician, in the 1920s. He was astounded to find the absence of diseases such as cancer, ulcers, heart conditions and tooth decay.

In a series of experiments he fed laboratory animals a Hunza diet and compared them to rats fed diets common in India, England and other countries. The Hunza diet won.

Apricots are a staple, eaten fresh during summer and dried for eating during winter. Juice made from soaked and squeezed dried apricots is used as a laxative.

Now here's where the grain of salt comes in: important as the apricot is, however it is only one key to long life spans in Hunzakutland. Isolated from the rest of the world, much like Shangri-La in James Hilton's "Lost Horizon," Hunza is almost immune from communicable diseases such as chicken pox, small pox, measles and venereal disease. Cookout time

Bone up on steaks

By MISS JOYCE KLINE
Asst. Home Economist
Cooperative Extension Service

STROUDSBURG — With Memorial Day comes the start of the cookout season — and frequently the puzzle for the family meat buyer: What kind of beef steak to buy for the grill?

Here are a few tips from the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Agricultural Marketing Service.

If you want to be sure of tenderness, juiciness, and flavor, pick one of the more tender cuts and make sure that it is either USDA Prime or USDA Choice grade. What are the more tender cuts? Any of the loin steaks: sirloin, tenderloin, porterhouse, T-bone, or club steak. Or a rib steak.

Many consumers complain that the names with which beef cuts are labeled in the grocery store are confusing, and that they wouldn't recognize any of these steaks if they saw them. The loin and rib steaks and roasts are more likely to be given their "standard" names than are some other cuts of beef. Cuts from the chuck are the most likely to inspire imagination on the part of the meat seller, according to surveys made by the USDA and trade groups. Some of the names given chuck steaks: His 'n Hers, family steak, bread and butter steak, ranch steak — the list goes on and on.

A chuck steak can make good eating—especially if it is graded USDA Prime or Choice—but it will not be as tender as loin or rib steaks. There are several different muscles in the chuck, with varying degrees of tenderness.

If you'd like to bone up on beef steaks, send a post card to Cooperative Extension Service, 205 P.O. Bldg., Stroudsburg, or phone 421-6430 for a free copy of USDA's "How To Buy Beef Steaks."

MHMR holds police courses

STROUDSBURG — Police officials and law enforcement authorities are to receive "continuing education" through the Carbon, Monroe and Pike Counties Mental Health-Mental Retardation Program.

Making the announcement was Thomas E. Foley, Administrator for the Tri-County MH-MR Program.

The first in a series of meetings will be held starting at 7 p.m. today at the Stroudsburg Municipal Building. MH-MR personnel will speak to 35 persons already enrolled in a course covering criminal procedures. These sessions are being conducted by Sgt. Thomas Sinkovitch from Hazelton.

Scheduled to speak tonight is Dr. Peter Dijondomenco, associate director for the Mental Health Center at the General Hospital of Monroe County. His subject is, "How the Mental Health Center and law enforcement personnel can walk together in meeting community needs."

Legal aspects and procedures in committing a person to the community mental health center or a state hospital are to be covered by Attorney Richard Webb.

On Tuesday, June 19, a similar program will be presented to upper Monroe County municipal policemen at the Tobyhanna Elementary School in Pocono Pines. The group there is currently being instructed in the new Pennsylvania Penal Code Laws by State Trooper Sgt. William Puchalsky.

Monroe groups oppose rate hike

HARRISBURG — Two Monroe County groups testified Monday before the Public Utilities Commission hearing in Harrisburg on the proposed Metropolitan Edison rate increase.

Both the Monroe County League of Women Voters and Pocono Community Action gave evidence against the requested rate hike.

The League of Women Voters was represented by three area couples who have filed a formal complaint against Met-Ed's increase, which they claim would represent a 26 per cent hike.

The league charged that Met-Ed's rates were substantially higher than other power companies to which consumers have no recourse because of Met-Ed's virtual "monopoly" over the area.

The group stated Met-Ed's reasons for the rate hike, which include a guarantee of a 7.6 per cent rate of return on the power companies' facilities, were unjustified.

Upon examination of the company's budget, the league claimed that Met-Ed spent too much on advertising, which leads to higher consumer rates, and not nearly enough on research, which could produce cheaper methods of producing power.

The league also asked why Met-Ed could boast of "a record level per-share earnings" for stockholders while asking for a rate hike to keep out of the red.

Pocono Community Action, a citizens group which has circulated petitions opposing the rate increase, asked the PUC to deny Met-Ed's increase because it would make "the consumer obviously in trouble."

The group cited statistics showing Met-Ed would receive 70 per cent more from its customers than in 1970 if the rate hike is granted.

They claimed the cost per kilowatt hour would jump from 2.3 cents an hour in 1970 to 3.8 cents an hour.

Adding to the recommendations of the league, Pocono Community Action called for the PUC to "prohibit further nuclear construction, including the Portland plant" and "alter the rate structure so heavy users pay a more equitable share."

WATT SAVINGS

You'll find in these energy-conserving tips for your LAUNDRY

Can you or your family alone stop the drain on the nation's energy resources? Of course not. But if each of PP&L's 865,000 customers — residential, farm, commercial and industrial — makes a conscious effort to use only the electricity or gas, oil or coal we really need, the total reduction could have a dramatic effect on our energy supplies. Below are just three of the small ways all of us, homemakers, husbands or children, can make a contribution over-all to that saving, and save money, too!

★ Don't wash and dry partial loads of clothes since it takes just as much hot water and electricity for a small load as for a full load.

★ Don't use hot water in your washer when warm or cold water will do. For example, on permanent press you can use warm instead of hot and washable woollens need only cold.

★ Don't overdry it increases wear as well as wasting energy. For clothes requiring ironing, taking them out still slightly damp makes them iron-ready.

Watch for others in our series of watt-saving hints. They'll ease the drain on your pocketbook and play a small but mighty part in easing the nation's energy drain.

Century-old jail can't meet state's standards

By GARY GROSSMAN
Pocono Record Reporter

STROUDSBURG — Clanking steel, two feet of concrete and an eight-by-six double cell may have been the rage in maximum security 110 years ago.

Today, the Monroe County Jail has been rendered almost inoperable by new county prison standards handed down from the state Justice Department, Bureau of Corrections.

"The only answer is either a new jail or transferring prisoners to other institutions," said Monroe County Sheriff Forrest B. Sebring.

Last year the jail handled 663 prisoners, one less than much larger Lackawanna County.

Lackawanna's jail has a capacity of 76 and a staff of 27. Sebring's lock-up is staffed by nine and officially has a capacity for 16 prisoners. The average daily population in 1972, however, was 18 prisoners a day.

And as many as 40 men have been packed inside its drab cracked walls at one time.

Never again, according to the new standards slated to become effective in 1974.

Strict adherence to the new regulations may mean the jail won't even be able to handle the 12 prisoners who lounged in front of a television set Monday in the main cell block.

The standards, designed to protect the innocent, call for segregation of prisoners according to physical condition, mental capacity, age, recidivism and stage of rehabilitation.

Single cell occupancy is a goal, but "dormitory" occupancy should be based on compatibility.

"There are almost more categories than we have cells," Sebring said. "There's no way we can segregate anyone in this county. I think we will end up transferring to other jails.

"We just can't meet all these standards," he declared. "Either way we're going to have to spend more money."

There is little likelihood the county will build a whole new jail, despite such recommendations from a series of grand juries following inspections.

If we had nothing but unsentenced prisoners, could probably make do," Sebring said, adding the cost of running the jail wouldn't drop with the number of prisoners.

Five unsentenced prisoners were in the jail: a murderer, an alleged rapist, an alleged armed robber, accused burglar and a man charged with unlawful entry.

Seven sentenced prisoners included five on work-release and two spending 30 days for drag racing. Sebring was doubtful they would be transferred in any case.

Prisoner population aside, Sebring said the physical plant in Monroe County's jail can't meet the requirements of the state.

But then it hasn't for about 30 years.

Well-worn toilet-lavatory in county jail may soon be replaced.

Prisoners spend spare time lounging in the narrow exercise area surrounded by cell block.

'Paytriotism?'

Election workers get raise

STROUDSBURG — Troubles finding workers during the May 15 Primary prompted the Monroe County Commissioners Monday to raise the pay for election workers.

From now on a judge of election will be paid $28; inspector of election $26; machine inspector $24 and constable $20 for the day's work.

Election workers had been paid on a sliding scale based on numbers of votes cast.

The commissioners also tabled a lone $12,800 bid for 15 sanitary units for the Monroe County Jail from R. J. Groner of Stroudsburg.

Commissioner William F. Quinn was all for accepting the bid, but Chairman Mrs. Nancy B. Shukaitis and Commissioner Arlington Martin said they needed time to check an estimated cost for the project.

The commissioners accepted another bid from Groner pricing an incinerator for Pleasant Valley Manor at $4,368.

Mrs. Shukaitis said the state Department of Labor and Industry was due to report on the results of an inspection at the county home.

The county is hoping to restore 39 beds to use in the Manor's old wing, a portion of the county home hit hardest by safety codes requiring a sprinkler system and fire wall.

Indications are the department may approve the use of the old wing for residential care without the costly renovation.

The commissioners decided not to buy-in on a program to eradicate the barberry bush sponsored by the state Department of Agriculture.

After speaking with department personnel, the commissioners found out it is the Japanese barberry that carries black stem rust and threatens grain crops.

Mrs. Shukaitis said the barberry growing in Monroe County is mostly an American variety.

In other matters, the commissioners resolved to accept sponsorship of a federal staffing grant for the tri-county community mental health center located in the General Hospital of Monroe County.

Planning board delayed

SAYLORSBURG — The Ross Township Supervisors disappointed a handful of residents Monday night when the board failed to take further action on a planning commission.

The board moved to establish a local planning unit at its May meeting.

It was expected that supervisors would advertise an ordinance to that affect this month and formally adopt it at this week's meeting.

No ordinance was advertised and according to Supervisors Chairman Oscar Bonser, there wasn't much to discuss because Solicitor Edward Hoffner was in the hospital.

According to Supervisor Dalen Meixsell, the board would take further action only after Hoffner was out of the hospital.

In another action, the supervisors considered approving a 58-lot plot plan owned and developed by Thomas Rue of Shawnee-on-Delaware.

An official decision will be made after site inspection of the property on Saturday.

Police search for airplane

BARTONSVILLE — State police at Stroudsburg and Stroud Township police searched the Bartonsville area Monday night for an aircraft that was reported flying low with a dead pro-peller.

State police intend to use a helicopter today to comb the Stroud Township-Snydersville area.

The plane was reportedly sighted between Wiss Volkswagen and the PennDOT facility in Stroud Township flying low.

Water Gap residents turn green over color of water

DELAWARE WATER GAP — The water in the Borough of Delaware Water Gap is not only green, according to residents, but it smacks of chlorine.

A petition signed by 81 borough residents "dissatisfied with their well water" was submitted to the borough council Monday in protest of the hard water residents have been receiving.

Last month, irate citizens protested to the council that water from the borough's tank was turning clothing green.

The problem, said council president John Wilson, Jr., lies with the rainy season. Water collected in the reservoir in the spring is full of dirt; chlorine must then be used to purify it. Thus, the "hard" water taste.

"We know we have a problem," Wilson said. "The borough residents pay for clean water and they should get it."

The two solutions seen by the borough are the purchase of a water softener or the installation of a filter system.

At present, because of the exorbitant cost of a softening system and governmental designs on the reservoir land, the best solution seems to be a temporary filter system, said Wilson.

"This is going to cost the borough some money," Wilson stated. "But it's a problem that's got to be solved."

The solution to the borough's waste problem is now costing Delaware Water Gap twice as much as previous dumping in a Hamilton Twp. landfill.

Since the closing of the landfill, owned by Joseph Hopkins, almost a month ago, the borough has been trucking its garbage to the Bangor incinerator.

This has upped the cost of the municipal sanitation from $108 a month to $216 a month. The borough takes about eight tons of garbage to Bangor weekly and pays six dollars a ton.

A back-up dumping ground for the borough, in case Bangor has problems with its incinerator, will be the Grand Central Landfill in Plainfield Twp., Northampton County.

The council also earmarked its 1973 revenue sharing funds — $1,065 — for the borough recreation fund and fire company, to be divided evenly.

Delaware Gap going to the dogs?

DELAWARE WATER GAP — Delaware Water Gap is going to the dogs — and no one, not even the police chief, can catch up with them.

Delaware Water Gap, said Barbara Drake, council vice-president, receives several complaints weekly about the stray dogs menacing residents.

All attempts to have the beats restrained by their owners have failed.

The borough has advertised that all dogs caught wandering loose will be captured and taken to the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals' shelter.

The police chief, William Snow, is responsible for rounding up offenders. It's mighty hard to corral the devils, though, without a net.

When Snow tried to borrow a net from the SPCA, he was told they didn't have one. So he had to resort to barehanded lasso, with little help from residents.

Those who complain about the mongrels to the council refuse even to witness formal complaints, tying the hands of law enforcement agencies trying to prosecute the offending dogs.

Thwarted at catching dogs, Snow says he will try cat catching. He will soon borrow some cat traps from the SPCA to aid him in the search.

Peterson replaced as chairman

MORRISVILLE — W.C.G. Bud Peterson of Stroudsburg was recently honored by the Delaware River Joint Toll Commission.

Peterson received a plaque for his service as chairman of the commission.

The commission elected Milton Woolfenden, Jr., Newton, N.J., as chairman for the upcoming year replacing Peterson.

Robert F. Bugler of Philadelphia was elected vice chairman, and John C. Baylor of Phillipsburg, N.J. was elected secretary-treasurer.

Mrs. Yetter, Cohen named to ESSC board

HARRISBURG — Atty. Maxwell H. Cohen of Stroudsburg and Mrs. Katherine A. Yetter of East Stroudsburg R.D. 2 have been nominated by Gov. Shapp to the East Stroudsburg State College Board of Trustees.

Mrs. Yetter, widow of former State Rep. Van D. Yetter (D-Monroe), is a Democratic committeewoman for Smithfield Township and a resident of the county for 38 years.

She was recommended to the post by Monroe Democratic Chairman W.C.G. Peterson and will replace Mrs. Mary Emma Garcia, Republican county auditor whose term expired.

Mrs. Yetter said she will be happy to serve if the appointment is verified. "Van's great uncle was one of the founders of the college and Van was very interested in it. This sort of thing brushes off onto you," she said.

Cohen a Republican, said he was pleased with a re-nomination after having served five years and three months on the board.

Mrs. Garcia, who couldn't be reached for comment, served about a month longer than Cohen. No period was announced for Mrs. Yetter's and Cohen's new term.

Coolbaugh supervisors oppose earned income tax

TOBYHANNA — James Cadue, chairman of the Coolbaugh Township Supervisors, read a letter from Solicitor George Robinson in reference to a budget and finance meeting held at the Pocono Mountain High School regarding the one per cent earned income tax to be levied by the school district.

Coolbaugh supervisors had been requested to attend the meeting but did not. Cadue said he strongly opposed the tax and that he "personally would rather see an increase in millage rather than the earned income tax."

He stated large resort and second home owners would be eliminated from paying, if the one per cent earned income tax is levied.

According to supervisors, with the increase in millage, all persons in the community would be paying with no exception.

Supervisors agreed to have Joseph Eck, member of the planning commission, contact township solicitor and have a petition opposing the earned income tax be drafted. The petition will be circulated among residents in Coolbaugh.

In other action, supervisors tabled a request from Pocono Summit Volunteer Fire Co. for a donation.

District Magistrate Clara Pope presented supervisors with a check in the amount of $1,122 for motor vehicle violations for the month of May.

Supervisors announced, at a special meeting in May with Gilbert Associates, the feasibility study was updated and they accepted the Weston Report in conjunction with Gilbert's Arrowhead North and Pocono Country Place were included in the updated report.

Supervisors announced that plans have been submitted by Nottingham Woods, a 369 lot development, located on Heights Road, Coolbaugh.

Gypsy moth spraying gets off to slow start

STROUDSBURG — Gypsy moth spraying by the Department of Environmental Resources (DER) got off to a slow start Monday due to rainy weather conditions.

DER spokesman John Bitzer said, however, several areas, including Shoemakers, Pocono Heights and White Heron Lake, were sprayed in the afternoon.

The DER's program in Monroe County will get off to an early start today, weather permitting.

Bitzer said the standard three helicopters will be in operation. The first will be in the Canadensis area, a second at Readers and Barton Glen and a third at Sun Valley and Jonas in the West End.

If the West End is completed, the third helicopter will move on to Bartonsville.

Residents wondering if they are included in the ongoing program can expect to be sprayed if they were notified by the county. If they didn't receive a letter, chances are they are not included.

But for more exact information residents may wish to check the maps in the Monroe County Commissioners' office or contact the DER by phone or visit their 474 Clearview Lane offices.

Revenue sharing pie cut

MOUNT POCONO — The Mount Pocono Borough Council decided Monday night to plug revenue sharing funds into recreation, public safety and environmental protection.

The borough has received about $4,000 in revenue sharing funds for the first half of this year. The action taken was necessary on a requirement mandating municipalities announce where the funds will go before June 20.

Specifics on what items the funds will be spent on aren't necessary on the report. The council divided the funds as 50 per cent for recreation, 25 per cent for public safety and 25 per cent for environmental protection.

Other areas where the funds could be channeled were public transportation, health, libraries, social services for the aged or poor and financial administration. The borough received about $7,000 in revenue sharing funds last year.

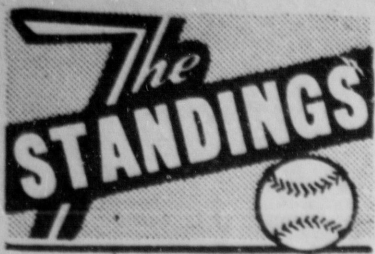

In other action, council approved a day camp program sponsored by the borough. To be headed by Wayne Boyd, Pocono Mountain High School teacher, it will offer swimming lessons and other athletic instruction to youngsters.

Land swap approved

STROUDSBURG — Approval was granted Monday for a land swap between Northeastern National Bank and Monroe County following a court hearing.

The county exchanged the former Veteran's Affairs office at 609 Sarah St. for a vacant double house next door at 611-612 Sarah St., stipulating the bank would not construct a structure on the property.

The county feared possible blockage of a courthouse expansion program, but both parties testified the swap would increase available parking space and not hinder future expansion.

EAST STROUDSBURG — Five California schools are entered in the 11th annual NCAA College Division Tennis Championships next week at East Stroudsburg State College.

Play will begin Monday in the five-day tournament on both the ESSC and Stroudsburg High School courts. A record entry of more than 100 singles players and 50 doubles team is expected.

Heading the field will be California State at Irvine, champion or co-champion the last three years. The Ant-eaters shared the 1972 crown with Rollins College of Winter Park, Fla.

Also entered are two other California state schools, Fullerton and Davis. The University of San Diego will send a full team of four singles players and two doubles teams as will California Poly San Luis Obispo.

The strength of California tennis has been highly evident in the past ten NCAA tournaments. Only once has a non-California school won the title, Rollins back in 1965.

California Irvine and Los Angeles State each have won two championships and shared another. Other winners have been Long Beach State, Fresno State and San Fernando Valley State.

The entry list is expected to be completed later this week. Seedings and pairings will be made Sunday afternoon with play beginning 8 a.m. Monday.

San Fernando Valley was the lone California school in the field in 1969 when the tournament also was held at East Stroudsburg. The school eked out a one-point victory over Northeast Missouri State.

ESSC finished third, highest ever by an eastern school, in 1969. The Warriors will be hard-pressed to equal that placing even though they have one of the best-balanced teams in the school's history.

Coach Charles Wolbers of ESSC has been amazed by the response to the tournament. Four years ago, a total of 74 singles players and 33 doubles teams were entered and the turnout will be much greater next week.

Francis quits as Rangers' coach

By BILL MADDEN
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — Emile "Cat" Francis, citing "increasing responsibilities as a general manager," Monday stepped down as coach of the New York Rangers of the National Hockey League and appointed ex-Ranger Larry Popein to succeed him.

Francis, the only front office executive still serving in the dual role of manager and coach at the end of the 1972-73 season, admitted he was dropping the coaching post with mixed emotions, but expressed confidence that Popein would continue the Rangers' winning tradition. The 46-year-old Francis will now serve strictly as general manager.

"With the growth of hockey becoming more and more apparent each year, it has become just too much of a task to both coach and also get out on the road to recruit draftable players and see all of them," Francis said. "While I am disappointed we did not win the Stanley Cup, I am proud of my record here as coach, having promised that the Rangers would be a competitive and winning hockey club which they have."

Popein, who centered the Ranger line of Andy Bathgate and Dean Prentice from 1954 through 1960, has been coaching in the club's farm system for four years, the latest stop being Rhode Island of the American Hockey League this past season. Francis made it clear that only Popein had been contacted for the job, stating that, "we like to hire from within our own organization."

"I know the kind of ship they run here," the 42-year old Popein said. "I guess if I had to sum up what kind of coach I'll be it would be hard, honest and fair."

Both Francis and Popein softpeddled any talk of wholesale changes in the Rangers' personnel despite a growing belief that the best years may be behind many of the current New York players.

"There's excellent talent on this team," Popein said, "and they have a great amount of pride. The key to winning the Stanley Cup next year will be to keep healthy, avoid injuries and get the momentum at the right time of the season."

"We're not about to break up this hockey club no matter what some of the media people and other coaches have been saying," asserted Francis. "The record of the Rangers over the past few years is as good as any team in the NHL."

Francis also emphasized that the decision to step down as coach was his and that he was not "pushed" by Rangers' president William Jennings.

"I want to make it clear and plain that when I joined this organization I was told that any decisions would be made on my part. This decision to step down was strictly mine and not many other people in hockey can say that."

"If it were any different in this organization," he added, "I wouldn't stay here for two minutes and you better believe it."

And the winner is . . .

Rain-dampened Indy 500 affects other USAC events

SPEEDWAY, Ind. — A torrid battle for the 1973 USAC National Driving Championship between Indianapolis 500 winner Gordon Johncock and Billy Vukovich will be renewed in the rescheduled running of the Rex Mays 150 at Milwaukee, Wis. June 10.

The event at Wisconsin State Fair Speedway was postponed one week in order to allow the racing teams to prepare their cars properly, in view of the delayed running of the Indianapolis event.

Johncock will trail Vukovich by just 10 points going into the Milwaukee event.

Johncock drove to victory in an STP Double Oil Filter Eagle-Offy in the Indianapolis event, beating Vukovich to the wire by a minute and 25 seconds as the race was ended by a red flag after 332.5 miles.

Vukovich had trailed Johncock by only 29 seconds before the yellow flag came out four laps from the end.

Vukovich, in the Sugarprune Eagle-Offy, was the only driver on the same lap with Johncock at the finish.

A red flag resulting from the flaming crash of Johncock's teammate, Swede Savage, in an STP Oil Treatment Eagle-Offy on the fourth turn resulted in another delay of an hour and 15 minutes.

All of the top 10 of the Indianapolis race are included in the entry list for the Mays race.

Adger McCluskey, winner of the 1972 California 500, finished third at Indianapolis and also ranks third in the Championship point standings.

Vukovich has 1,250 points, Johncock 1,240 and McCluskey 1,015.

Also entered in the Mays event are: Mel Kenyon — fourth in the Indianapolis 500 and sixth in the point standings; Gary Bettenhausen — fifth in the Indianapolis 500 and fourth in the point standings; Steve Krisloff — sixth at Indianapolis and 11th in the points; Lee Kunzman — seventh at Indianapolis, eighth in the Championship points and the current USAC Sprint point leader and John Martin — eighth at Indianapolis and 16th in the points.

Also, Johnny Rutherford — Indianapolis pole-sitter who finished ninth in that race and is in 10th place in points, and Mike Mosley — tenth-place finisher at Indianapolis, who ranks seventh in the points, are entered.

Sam Hanks to drive Schaefer pace car

MOUNT POCONO — Dr. Joseph R. Mattioli, chairman of the board and chief executive officer of Pocono International Raceway and William S. Simpson, chairman of the board of the Raybestos-Manhattan Corporation, in a joint announcement, have named the 1957 Indy 500 winner, Sam Hanks, to drive the Raybestos pace car on July 1 for the third annual running of the Schaefer 500.

Hanks now serves as Director of Racing for Indianapolis Motor Speedway and as a racing consultant for Raybestos. He will pace the 33-car field for the start of the second jewel in the United States Auto Club's prestigious "Triple Crown" behind the wheel of a 1973 Javelin AMX.

The specially prepared car is equipped with a 360-cid 4-barrel V8 with a 4-speed transmission, power steering, power disc brakes, mag wheels and a spoiler package.

For the third consecutive year, Mr. Simpson will present the Raybestos pace car to the driver winning the Schaefer 500, on behalf of Raybestos-Manhattan.

USAC moves for safety, fans

For those of you who may have missed the news on Sunday, United States Auto Club (USAC) officials Saturday decided to make modifications on requirements imposed on cars which will race in races such as the Schaefer 500 in July at Pocono International Raceway.

USAC officials have dropped the allowed car fuel supply from 75 to 40 gallons and ordered a reduction in the wing span on the Indianapolis-type cars by eight inches to 54 inches. All I can say is, "Right, on, USAC."

Something had to be done after the debacle at Indianapolis. The events in the granddaddy of all 500 miles races justify these changes which will help to keep speeds farther away from 200 miles per hour and hopefully keep drivers away from hospitals.

I'm certainly no expert on this sport of auto racing, but even someone who has never seen a car other than a passenger automobile drive can tell you that high speeds raise high dangers.

Maybe now all this competition concerning being the first to top 200 miles per hour will come to a necessary halt. The fact that someone has already surpassed the "magic" figure in practice didn't stop the others from chasing it in qualifications.

Now, hopefully, the drivers can go back to driving the cars and looking to win races instead of looking to get the highest speed possible. Think about it, when was the last time you can remember a pole sitter in qualifications winning the race?

While playing a round of golf at a local course recently, a playing companion put what could be the feelings of many other auto fans into words.

"These guys are going too fast. The faster they go, the more things happen to the drivers and the cars."

"Myself, let me out there and I'll pull to the outside and let everyone pass me. But if they drive 170 miles per hour and their cars break down, I'll take 120 miles per hour top speed and I'll tell you, I'll still be in there running when it's over," he said.

Employee safety

A The Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA), based in Washington, is the key enforcement agency

OSHA has several hundred inspectors in the field, and if you report a complaint, it is up to these inspectors to visit your plant or office, explore the details and set the machinery in motion to right the situation. Inspectors are supposed to arrive unannounced.

Q. What happens to

A. They frequently are fined and required to eliminate the hazards. The law provides for fines up to $10,000 for violations and/or six months imprisonment. The law permits OSHA to go to the courts to have a dangerous workplace or a given dangerous operation within a company closed down until violations are cleaned up.

A. Some are hard for an ordinary individual to spot. But here are obvious potential hazards for which the U.S. Public Health Service suggests you be on the lookout in your workplace:

Dust, fumes, gases, vapors and mists which you breathe;

radioactive materials; microwaves, lasers; drugs and hormones; molds, parasites or bacteria from animals or animal products; materials which irritate your skin; excessive noise.

DATSUN SAVES

In todays world of the ever present energy crisis gasoline economy becomes more and more important to the everyday car owner.

Below are the results of some recent tests from the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency who tested all the cars available for sale in the U.S. today. Over the entire range of foreign and domestic cars offered for sale in the U.S. this year the E.P.A. found the DATSUN 1200 to be the stingiest gas user at 28.7 miles per gallon of gas.

Datsun 1200 28.7 MPG
Ford Pinto 21.4 MPG
Gas Savings 7.3 MPG

Datsun 1200 28.7 MPG
AMC Gremlin 18.0 MPG
Gas Savings 10.7 MPG

Datsun 1200 28.7 MPG
Ferrari Spyder 6.3 MPG
Gas Savings 22.4 MPG

Datsun 1200 28.7 MPG
Chevrolet Vega 21.5 MPG
Gas Savings 7.2 MPG

Datsun 1200 28.7 MPG
Avg. Domestic 13.5 MPG
Gas Savings 15.2 MPG

Come in to Abeloff Datsun — test drive, compare and see for yourself why DATSUN offers more value per dollar than any other car available in the U.S. today!

Ann Landers

Ungrateful kids

Dear Ann Landers: Here's an open letter to all you kids who are mad at your parents because they didn't give you enough love when you were growing up. (Some of you "kids" are 30 years old.) Your psychiatrist told you (for $40 an hour) that your parents are to blame for messing you up — that they were too busy making money or being community big shots. A hired woman fed and dressed you. You weren't rocked enough, or breast-fed. Or your parents had a bad marriage. They yelled at each other and you got bad vibes.

How do you account for all the kids who grew up on the street, never knew a decent meal, no silverware on the table, father a drunk, mother a barfly, yet they made it just fine — without psychiatric help. Many of these so-called "neglected" kids are leaders in business, politics, education, art, music — wherever you look.

I am so fed up hearing kids blame their parents for everything that I could throw up. I am waiting for the day when they have kids of their own. Let's see how well THEY turn out.

Your Good-For-Nothing Father

Dear Father: You didn't ask for any advice, but I have an idea you should have grabbed a few of those $40 sessions for yourself. You sound deeply disappointed in your children and worse yet, seething with anger. Obviously you've been hurt and rejected and it shows. Maybe it's not too late for you to get some self-understanding. I recommend it.

Are your parents too strict?

TV "tribute" seemed especially a flyweight. A true major clown wouldn't have taken a sleazy swat at a downgraded star such as Bill Lundigan. . . Slappy White was the show's delight; Cosell and Don Rickles got off mawkish. Thy name is insincerity. . . Cosell got hit with every deserved insult except Jimmy Cannon's: "Cosell wears caps on his teeth, a wig, and contact lenses and tells it like it is."

Business keeps up with the meaty times: the American Greetings Corp. has a card, "Fore someone worth his weight in hamburger" . . . NO JOKE: (Q.) This girl is driving me crazy. I don't get many chances to talk to her, and when I do I choke up.

There is a boy who talks to her but she doesn't like him. My friend and I play jokes on him. That is how I get a chance to talk to her, but when I get close to her my tongue won't work.

I would like to talk with her and dance with her, if I could. Can you tell me how?

All Tied Up in Texas

(A.) Playing jokes on someone to get a girl's attention is dirty pool. Pushing yourself up by pushing someone else down doesn't work.

Go to the girl when she is not talking to someone else and tell her you have something to apologize to her about.

Tell her you know now that was the wrong thing to do and you hope she will forgive you and be your friend. Also tell her that some day you hope you will get to know her bet-

One other thing. Apologize first to the boy you played the tricks on.

SWIMMER: (Q.) I am just 12 but I am a very good swimmer for a girl. For two years I was on our town swimming team. Then I had a bad earache and lost the hearing in one ear.

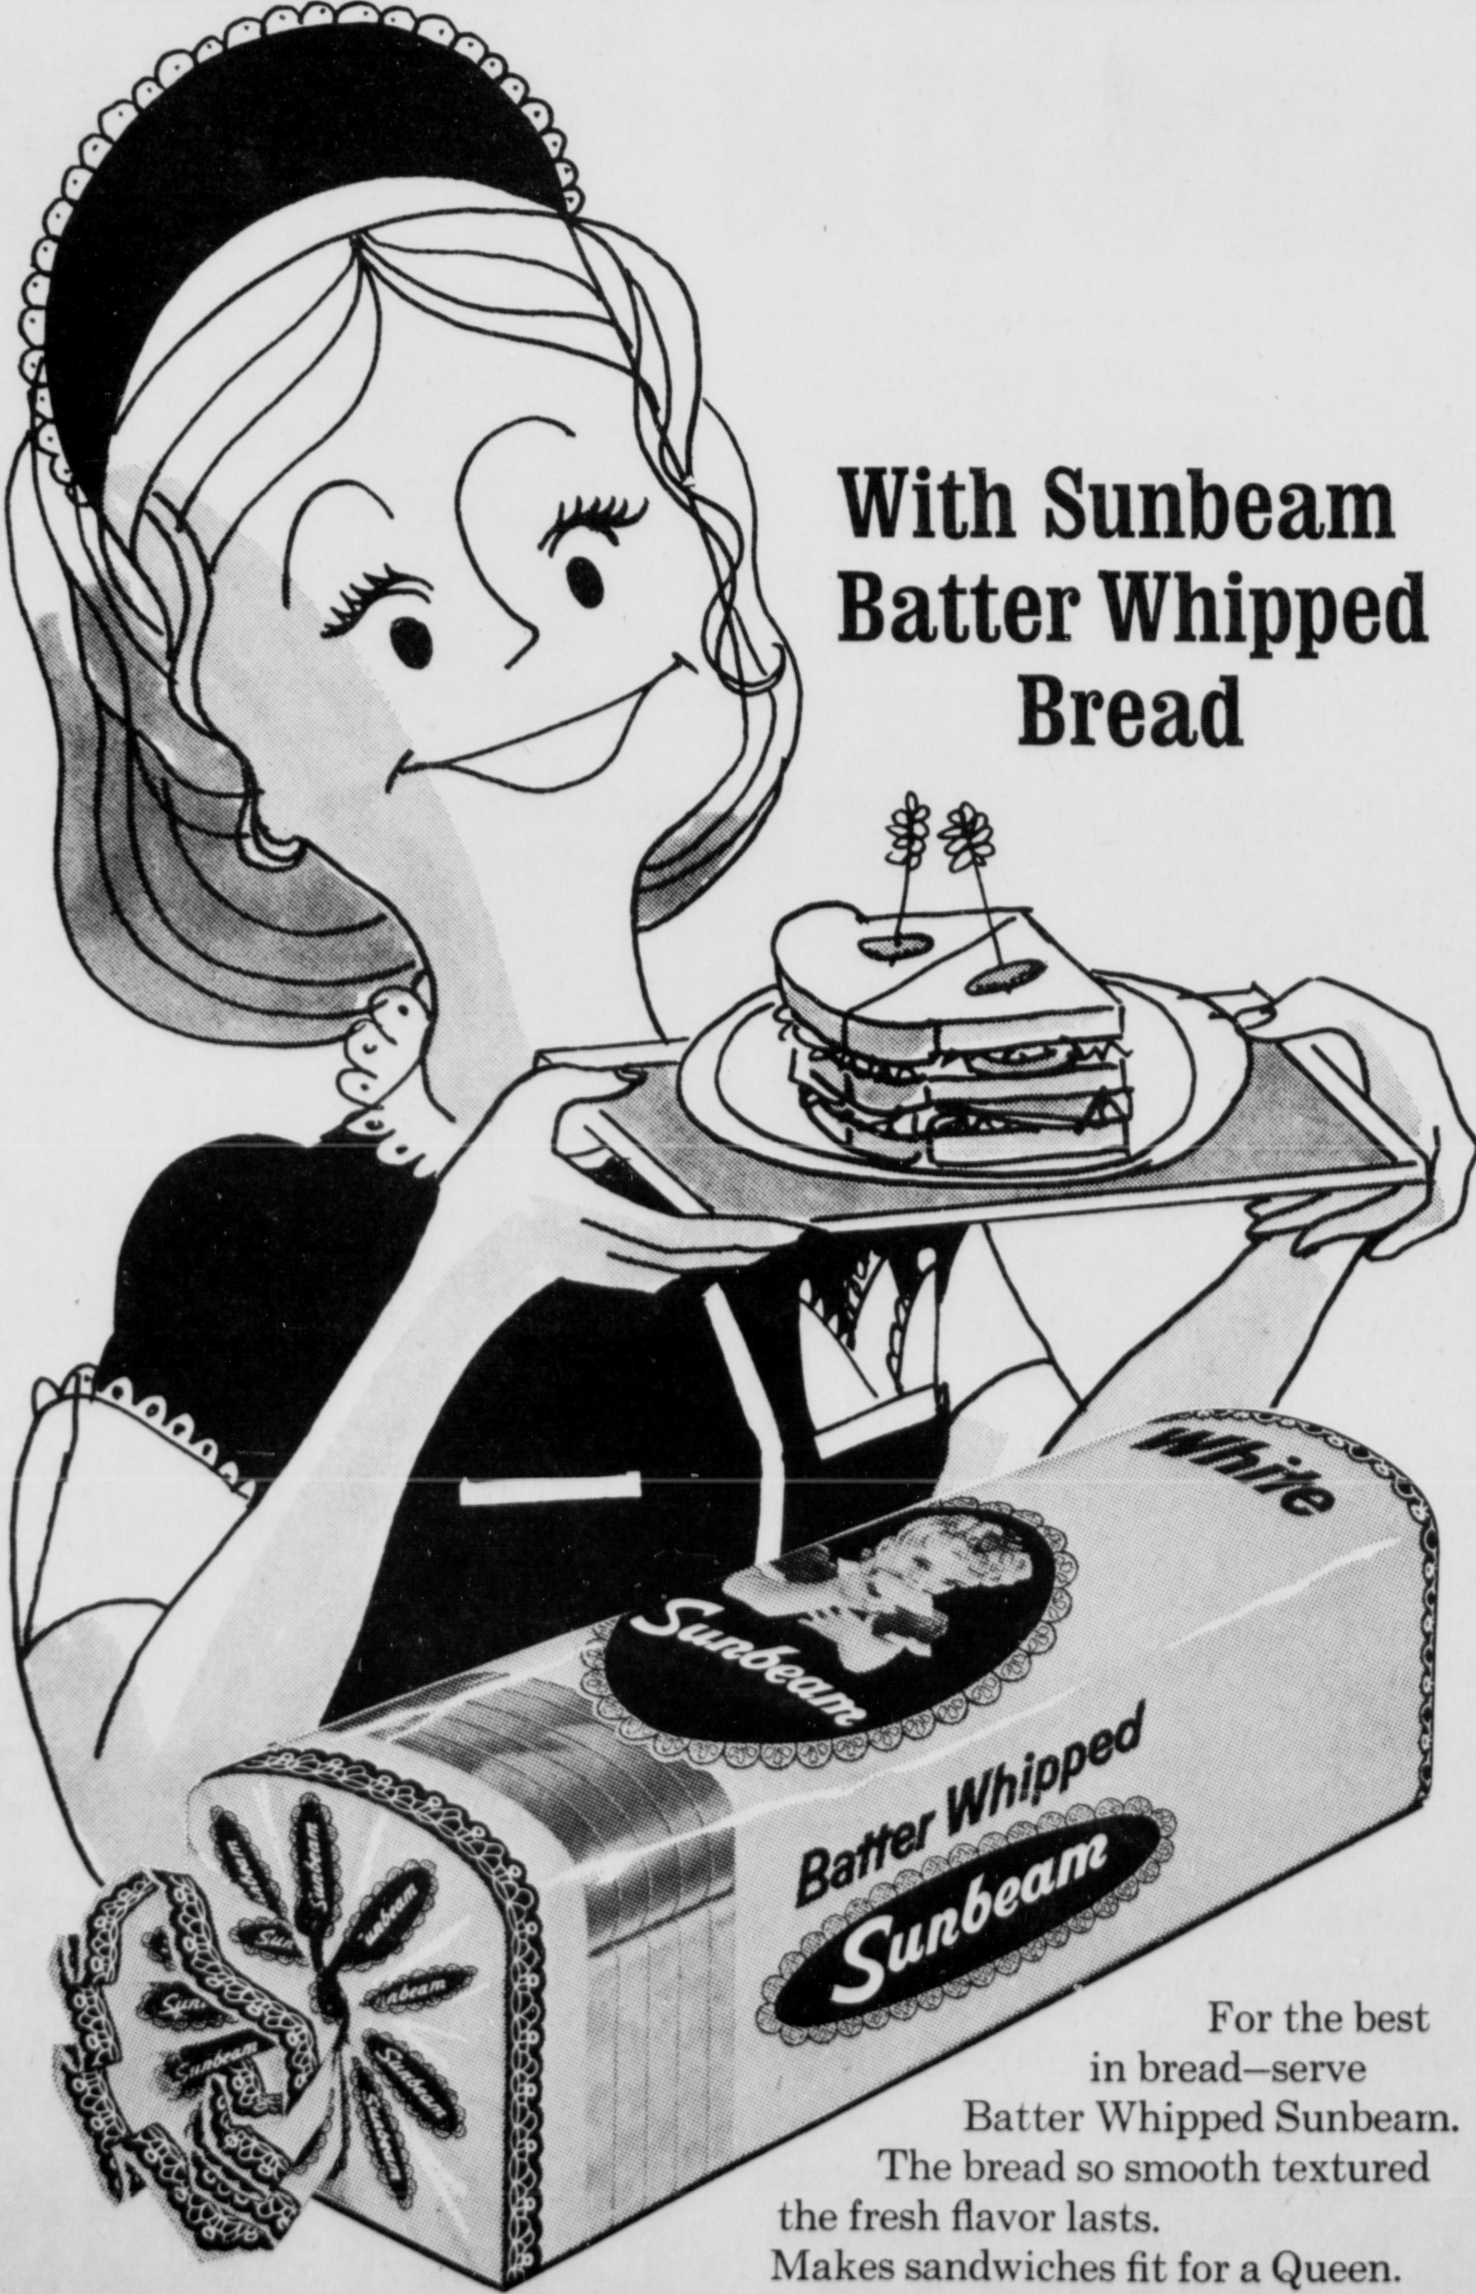

My doctor told me to stay off the team for a while. I have stayed off for a year and want to go back. I don't ever have an earache now. But my mother says I shouldn't go back and she doubts if I will ever be able to swim in competition again.

Do you think I ought to go back on the team or not?

Loves It in Alabama

(A.) I think you should go back to your doctor, ask him for a checkup, and then ask for his advice. If his advice is to stay off the team, follow his advice.
